Setting the Table for Hospice

submitted by Brenda Knutson,
Sanford Hospice

The annual Setting the Table for Hospice fundraiser will be held on Saturday, Oct. 11, 2025, at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church in Canby. This fundraiser in support of local hospice services and Neva's Fund kicks off with a silent auction at 9 a.m., followed by brunch and a short program. Dedicated members of the Canby community and Friends of Hospice Catering in collaboration with Sanford Hospice sponsor this event. All funds raised at the Setting the Table for Hospice fundraiser remain local and are used to enhance the care and services provided by Sanford Hospice or to support Neva's Fund.

Hospice care is care centered around comfort and uplifting a person's quality of life at end of life. Hospice is a benefit provided under Medicare Part A, Medicaid, or most private insurers; however, Sanford Hospice provides hospice services regardless of a person's ability to pay. When a person and their medical team decide that curative treatment is no longer their focus, hospice provides support and guidance to patients and their families. Hospice care is holistic care provided by a team of professionals and focused on a person's quality of life. Team members include doctors, registered nurses, social worker, nursing assistants, volunteers and chaplains.

Jefferson Street is getting the band back together in Minneota

THROWBACK - Jefferson Street will be playing at Boxelder Bug Days for the first time since 2017. Submitted photos.

by Josh VanKlompenburg

Boxelder Bug Days will have a local flavor to it as Jefferson Street is getting the band back together.

The band is made up of Greg Novotny, Dane Nordquist, Steve Larson, Jim Christianson, and Doug and Scott Josephson.

"We're all from Minneota, we're all alumnus; the five of us have always played since '81 ... it's a great group of guys," said Nordquist.

Jefferson Street will perform Saturday, Sept. 6, after the queen coronation.

This year's set will be the first time the band has played together at Boxelder Bug Days since 2017.

Nordquist — who now lives in Canby — had a hand in putting the band together in 1981 in preparation for Minneota's centennial celebration. He first approached Richard Novotny about the idea.

"I said, 'I know all these guys who have been in bands. We'll be the warm-up band for whoever they finally select.'"

At this year's Boxelder Bug

Days, Jefferson Street will be playing a 90-minute set, featuring classic songs and old favorites. Some of the songs on the set list include "Pretty Woman," "Wagon Wheel," "Country Roads," "Sweet Caroline," and "Listen to the Music."

The group will have T-shirts made up for the event, as they have in years past.

Bollerud leaves small piece of Canby in Canada

by Josh VanKlompenburg

Our Saviour's Lutheran Church Pastor Levi Bollerud recently traveled to Alaska at the end of his sabbatical, and he left a little bit of Canby in his home state.

Bollerud and his sister helped move their mother from Oregon back to Alaska. He explained that it took about eight days of travel to make the move, driving roughly six to seven hours each day.

"I had never done it," Bollerud said. "My sister's done it a few times. It was really neat; the views were incredible. And, you know, you're in all these kind of small little Canadian towns where there's no other town for 50 miles. So it's kind of a real different feel, every place kind of just feels like a campsite almost."

The Alaska Highway actually begins in British Columbia and up through the Yukon Territory before crossing into Alaska.

"Sometimes it's referred to as the Alaska Canadian Highway or the ALCAN, where they just combine the two of them," Bollerud said.

He explained that when it was first constructed, it was "one of the roughest roads that you can drive."

Thoughts and prayers.
Who knew that such a well-meaning sentiment could cause such an uproar. But that was the case last week after the horrific school shooting at Annunciation Catholic School.
In a press conference, Minneapolis Mayor Jacob Frey attacked the sentiment.

“Don’t just say this is about thoughts and prayers right now, these kids were literally praying,” he said.
Other legislators and people in power echoed similar statements.

Frey seems to be drawing a line, saying that those children praying in mass is what led to them being shot. And as a result, their prayers must not have been heard. That’s a purely transactional way to look at prayers. I don’t pray so that I can get something out of it.

Prayer doesn’t prevent bad things from happening; rather it’s prayers that help us get through these difficult times. I don’t pray hoping God will eliminate my limb difference. I pray, asking God to guide me how to use my limb difference for His glory.

Prayer is not just a slogan or catchphrase. It is part of our dependence on God, building our faith and providing spiritual guidance and peace.

Frey’s comments even made it all the way to Washington, where Vice President JD Vance shared that it doesn’t have to be a choice between thoughts and prayers or taking action.

“Why does it have to be one or the other,” Vance questioned. “Why can’t you pray for the speedy recovery of these kids who literally just got shot yesterday, while at the same time committing to making sure this doesn’t happen again or that it happens as infrequently as possible.”

Well said, Mr. Vice President.
I find it fitting that reports say there was a scripture reading of Psalm 139 as the first shots were fired.

“If I say, ‘Surely the darkness shall cover me and the light about me be night, even the darkness is not dark to you; the night is bright as the day for darkness is as light with you.’

When there is darkness around us, there is light in His presence.
THAT is why I offer thoughts and prayers.

Bring Me The News - After four days of strong attendance, but no record turnout, the Minnesota State Fair set a new attendance record on Monday, Aug. 25. The fair’s 145,022 admissions for the first Monday eclipsed the previous high-water mark of 144,504 set in 2017. That’s nearly 65,000 more than attended the first Monday of the fair in 2024, which saw just 80,546 visitors, partly due to severe storms. Through the first five days, the 2025 fair has brought 819,197 through its gates, which is almost 110,000 more than last year, when the fair had its fifth-best attendance of all-time.

If you haven’t registered for Prairie Five’s Senior Expo yet, consider doing so today! On hiatus since 2019, we’re ready to welcome you back to this wonderful event once again. The Senior Expo takes place on Wednesday, Sept. 24, at the Montevideo Community Center, located at 550 South 1st Street in Montevideo. Free transportation will be available through Prairie Five RIDES for this event with pick-up spots in Benson, Appleton, Ortonville, Madison, Canby, and Clarkfield. As of this writing, pick-up times are still being arranged. Registration forms are available at each Prairie Five office and allow you indicate if you’d like to use the free transportation; you can also call 320-269-6578 to register. When the ride schedule is in place, you’ll receive a call with those details.

So, what’s happening at the Senior Expo? Registration begins at 9 a.m., and you’ll receive a swag bag and have a chance to visit with our friends from Countryside Public Health and MN State Services for the Deaf, Deaf Blind, and Hard of Hearing at their booths. Enjoy a light breakfast, juice, and coffee while hearing updates on new and existing opportunities in our area; I’m excited to share a bit about the 40% of dementia risk factors which are modifiable and my colleagues will have information from their programs as well. The keynote speaker this year is VJ Smith. Hailing from Brookings, South Dakota, Smith wrote the best-selling book “The Richest Man in Town”. He’ll take audience members on an emotional roller coaster ride with his signature talk which describes how Marty, an unforgettable cashier at a local big box store, became a legend in an unexpected place. Lunch will include Prairie Five’s signature ham ball dinner with baked potatoes, vegetable, dessert, and milk.

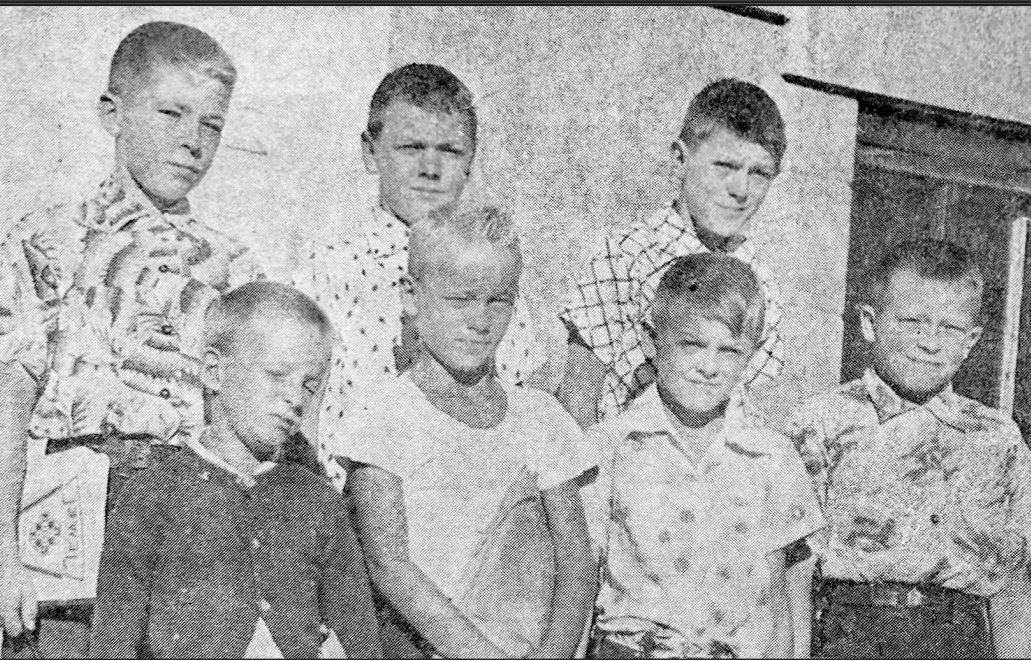

Entertainment will be provided by Kayla Daniels, a Nashville recording artist, singer, and songwriter. Growing up in southwest Minnesota, Daniels always had a passion for singing and songwriting and would watch the Grand Ole Opry with her grandparents on weekends. Her mom would play old records in the living room and the family would sing and dance to artists like Willie Nelson, Tammy Wynett, Tanya Tucker, and even Simon and Garfunkel. We are fortunate to have Daniels share her musical talent with us after lunch.

The Senior Expo will close with the drawing for door prizes at around 1:30 p.m. Reach out to a few friends and plan to attend together. Registration is $12 and all proceeds go to support the Prairie Five Senior Nutrition program. I first attended the Senior Expo in 2018 and had ham balls for the first time! Those, and all the smiles, laughter, and merriment are my best memories from the event. This will be a great day out, to learn, laugh and connect. If you have questions, would like more information, or want to get registered, call Prairie Five at 320-269-6578 or email P5meals@prairiefive.org . We hope to see you there!

Our Music on Mondays event on August 11 featured Canby’s debut of Dakota Blue with Katie J. We had record-setting attendance of nearly 400 folks of all ages on a beautiful Minnesota summer night. There was a very talented local gent (didn’t catch your name, sir!) with some serious harmonica skills that joined in for a jam, and a young future star (Kaydee Miller) joined in for some duet action. Katie J has no fear of the stage, and the whole band was incredibly talented and a joy to watch, with music for everyone there. Thank you all for bringing such fantastic energy!

We had an amazing turnout for National Night Out this year. The Arts Council drew an extensive coloring book trail for everyone to color in with chalk, including many familiar characters. A boy of five was particularly passionate about his chalk drawing that had an alarming amount of teeth. When told that he should consider becoming an artist someday, he shook his head sadly and said, “I can’t. I’m already gonna be a pirate. I have the shoes and the hat and an eyepatch and sword.” A face-painted moustache was offered, which he declined out of respect of his mother. When told he could be both an artist AND a pirate, he had to rethink his entire view on life.

Our last Music on Mondays event of the season will be Sept. 8, with Kayla Daniels bringing her best! The Canby Rotary will be piloting the food truck, so make it a night of great food, great music, and the best company at Central Park. All the cool people will be there.

Coming up, please mark your calendars for the Meander on Oct. 3, 4, and 5. This is a huge event and has made its way to Canby this year with multiple local artists on this self-guided art studio tour that features 42 artists. The Canby location is in the blue building across from the movie theater. Go to www.artsmeander.com for all the details, or grab yourself a map- available at the library or various locations around town.

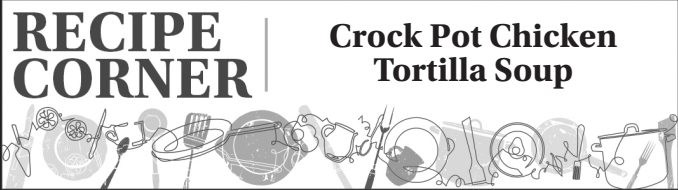

The Madison Merc is looking for a donation of a small project car to paint and display for the Meander weekend, so if you know someone or have one hiding in the back of your garage, contact Kris@madisonmercantile.com

If you need a couple more things to keep you out of trouble, The Merc also has Trivia Night on Friday, Sept. 12 and Open Mic Night on Sept. 19.

Looking forward to spooky season, the Arts Council is looking for artists of all ages and organizations to decorate/carve pumpkins for a contest during Trunk or Treat. If you or your group wish to participate, please message mscheviousart@yahoo.com to be added to the list. All the awesome folks are planning to carve a pumpkin.

Community blood drive Sept. 4-5

submitted by Deloris Schwartz

The Canby area bloodmobile will host a community blood drive with the American Red Cross on Sept. 4 from 1 - 7 p.m. and Sept. 5 from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Robert Salmon Center.

"The Canby area bloodmobile is committed to strengthening our community and helping meet hospital and patient needs through blood donations," said Deloris Schwartz, coordinator. "This blood drive is our way of giving staff, colleagues and neighbors an opportunity to help save lives."

Blood is a perishable product that can only come from volunteer blood donors. With someone in the U.S. needing blood every two seconds, blood products must be constantly replenished, according to the Red Cross.

"We urge community members to donate blood and help ensure that patients in local hospitals have a supply of blood ready and waiting before an emergency occurs," continued Schwartz. "There's no better feeling than knowing that your blood donation may give someone a second chance at life."

According to the Red Cross, donors with all blood types are needed, especially those with types O negative, A negative and B negative.

For more information or to make an appointment, call Deloris at 507-223-7205 or call or text her at 507-530-3476. You can also sign up online at redcrossblood.org.

Call today and receive one of four mystery tees with an iconic Red Cross Peanuts design (limited quantity).

Call today! You must have an appointment. Walk-ins will be taken if there are no shows or deferrals.

Karen Parsley and Lisa Pederson, owners and operators of Frazeur's Fairy Floss, brought their cotton candy-making equipment to the Rotary Club of Canby meeting on Aug. 28 at PK Egans. This allowed members to see how cotton candy is made, enjoy a delicious treat, and learn about their business journey.

Area history Canby Depot Museum

from the

by Alan Saltee

This week I will continue the story from my grandfather, Carl Saltee, as it appeared in the April 18 and April 25 editions of the Canby News from the year 1958. This week will be more on the history of pioneer days.

Carl Saltee writes: In those days (1880s and 1890s) it was not so easy to get things that were needed. Money came in slow from field crops on account of low markets. The highest price for cattle was for big steers, three years old, to be broken in for work oxen, and $40 to $50 and more would be paid. Four good oxen in front of a breaking plow was considered the best outfit for breaking sod. They were slow on the road but farmers hung on to the oxen for a number of years, no matter how draggy and cumbersome they were. After the middle of May and the month of June was the time for breaking prairie and digging rock. There was plenty of hard work around the breaking plow and stone handling. Farmers were anxious to break as much as possible while the prairie was soft. Later on the heat would bake the prairie so hard the plow would not faze it. Oxen were handy in many ways. When it was time to unhitch, picket ropes were used, two long ropes fastened to the pole of each team were driven into the ground near ponds or a slough where there was an abundance of grass. Oxen could not stand work in severe heat and when their tongues started to hang out four or six inches it was time to unhitch and tie them to the picket rope, giving them a chance at water at will. This would hurt a horse, but not oxen.

Those were pioneer days, hot and long, mostly 12-to-18-hour days. Such long days were necessary to keep up with the work in season. Many times, there was a straining rush because of crude and inconvenient implements. Here the work was laying open faced for us to do. We didn't expect somebody else to come and do it. So, we just went and did it.

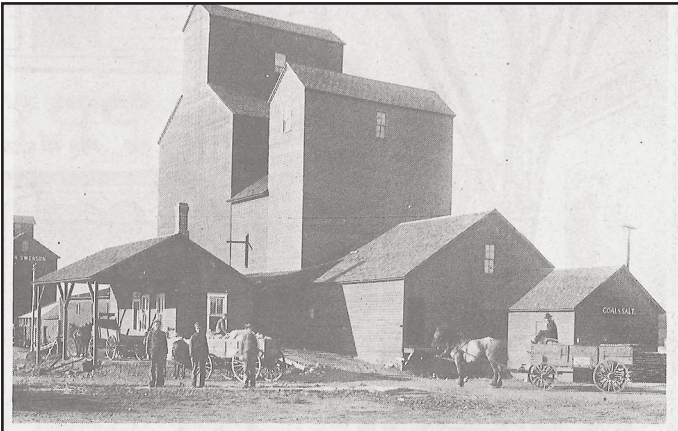

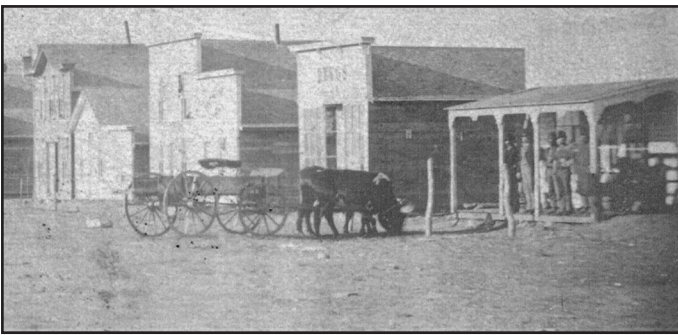

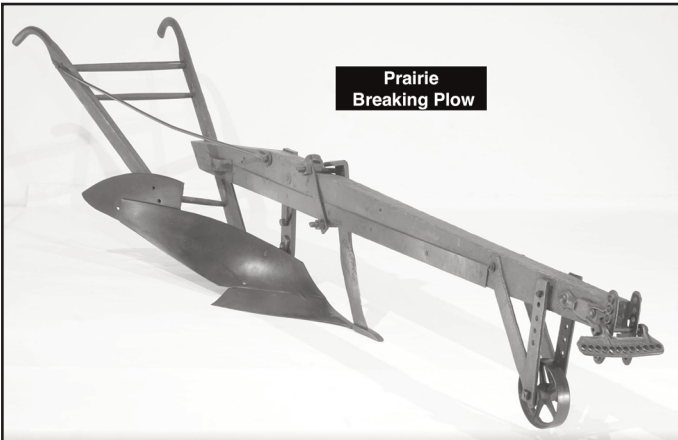

What became of all the large tracks of open prairie that lay before us more than fifty years ago? In those days it was used for cattle ranches. There were herds that numbered 150 to 200 head. The coming of people caused a demand for farms and those large prairies were gradually turned into the many beautiful farms we have today.

Granaries were usually covered with timber rails and a big heap of slough hay for a roof. These were used by most farmers for many years.

The principal products in those days were flax, wheat, cattle, butter, and eggs and a few hogs at times. The price of wheat hovered around 50 cents a bushel and sometimes a few cents more or less. The demand for wheat seemed to be small in those days. Flax yielded less but had a higher price from 70 to 80 cents, sometimes less. Eggs were rolling around at 7 to 10 cents a dozen except in the winter when they were boosted to 15 to 18 cents. The price of butter was in sympathy with egg prices in the summer, but in the winter, it would come up to 12 to 15 cents. There was no oat market until horses were used more.

Around 1880 there was considerable discussion in regard to the marketing of grain including grades and dockage and the Farmers Alliance was organized. Farmers of Fortier joined this movement and as an outcome many Farmers elevators were built, and Canby got its Farmers Warehouse which later rebuilt with an elevator and was called Farmers Elevator. This elevator has done a good business for at least sixty years. Many years after this was established, a large number of farmers bought an elevator from John Swenson and it was called Canby Farmers Grain Company.

CANBY FARMER'S ELEVATOR. The Canby Farmers Grain Company was organized in 1912, buying the John Swenson elevators at a low price and installing electric power and light. The first load of grain to be elevated electrically in Canby was lifted in August 1912 by Manager O.E. Nygren. This picture shows the east elevator at the turn of the century.

"Lowell Johnson won the men's championship at the Canby Golf club Sunday. It was the first time he entered the tourney. So, he has a batting average of 1,000 per cent. He not only won the title, but he came through with some unusual shots. For instance, on the fourth hole during his second round, he approached the green as Johnny Kreuzer's ball set near the cup on that green. Lowell chipped a shot onto the green, and the ball rolled against Kreuzer's ball and caromed into the cup for a birdie. Lowell also got two birdies on the last round."

Barb Miller

Barb Miller, age 78, of Gary, South Dakota, passed away on Sunday, Aug. 24, 2025, at the Avera McKennan Hospital in Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Funeral service took place Friday, Aug. 29, at the Gary Methodist Church. Houseman Funeral Home, Birk Chapel of Canby, Minnesota, was entrusted with handling the arrangements.

Barbara Ellen Miller was born July 26, 1947, in Watertown, South Dakota, to Robert and Irene (Pearson) McQuarie. She graduated from Clear Lake High School in 1965. She then attended the Stewart School of Hair-styling in Sioux Falls. She was united in marriage to Michael Miller in 1969 in Clear Lake. They moved to Clovis, New Mexico, AFB for Mike’s station. During his deployment, she lived back in Clear Lake. While there she worked as a beautician for Lela TeKrony. They then moved to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, AFB for Mike’s next station. Their son Allan was born there, and she stayed home with him. After Mike’s service ended, they moved to Watertown where their daughter Jennifer was born. Barb worked there at Spies Supervalu as a clerk. In 1975 they moved to their current house in Gary where she opened Barb’s Beauty Shop. Their son Scott was born there.

Barb held many other jobs in Gary including working at the Alibi, at Bill Prindle’s office, managing the 109 Club and cleaning the Legion Hall. She was on the Gary High School Board and was the Sunday School superintendent and teacher at Gary UMC. Barb felt she had about 13 jobs all at once!

Barb loved life and touched many people, whether it was in her beauty shop, making goodies at Christmas, having garage sales or cooking meals for her family. If you left her house hungry, it was your own fault! She loved her grandkids and always had activities planned, including tea parties, even for the boys. Barb enjoyed crocheting, going camping, fishing, reading, Christmas, watching Hallmark movies, a good bargain and spending time with family. Mike and Barb loved to travel together, and they visited many wonderful places.

She is preceded in death by her parents; one sister, Joan Berg; and her son, Scott Miller.

Prairie Lives

by Bill Palmer,LTC(ret), US Army

The Vietnam War – Marland Burckhardt Around School and Around Town

We have been learning about Marland Burckhardt, who grew up in rural Russell, Minnesota. He attended Russell Public Schools (RPS) and described some of his early school experiences in relation to where they were living.

“When I started first grade we were living in a downtown apartment. This was right after WWII and Dad was working in Iowa in a veterans-preference job. Then we moved to a farm site on the east side of town. Finally, we moved to the farm north of Russell. I was in third or fourth grade. It was about two miles to school. I used a school bus and sometimes my bicycle to get to school.”

RPS grew during his tenure and again shortly after he graduated.

“I was in RPS throughout – all 12 years in the same building. The school, built in 1919, was a big, square structure on a hill overlooking the town. We were all in that building when I started. Then they expanded it with a kitchen and cafeteria with more classrooms above. The year after I graduated, they built a gymnasium.”

Marland explained the original school did not have a true gymnasium.

“Before building that gym we had a crackerbox gymnasium on the ground floor with a stage on one end. They called it the Auditorium. The floor was probably half the size of a standard basketball court. We played our (basketball) games in the town hall. The year we knocked Marshall out of the District tournament we practiced in that town hall.”

Marland recalled that RPS classes were small and grew smaller in the upper grades

“We had 19 in our graduating class, but started with around 25 students in first grade. Not all continued through high school. That was not uncommon at that time. Sometimes classes were combined. For instance half of third grade combined with second grade and the other half combined with fourth grade.”

Lunchtime and recess were school day highlights.

“During elementary school I carried my lunch. We’d get little cartons of milk from the school. My lunch was generally a thermos of soup my mom prepared. We had our lunches in the classroom. During recess time we’d go outside and play softball and touch football. There was a jungle gym and some other old playground equipment. We had great snowball fights in the winter!”

He remembered all his elementary school teachers, but one stood out.

“My third grade teacher was Mrs. Brantner, who drove from Marshall. She introduced us to Laura Ingalls Wilder’s books. That was the first time I realized our region had a history. She read us a chapter a day. Later, I read those books to my children.”

Some of Marland’s lasting friendships began in elementary school.

“One was my wife’s brother, Darwin ‘Buzz’ Livingston. He’d been held back in second grade when I caught up with him. I was a nerd, trying to keep out of sight in back. Buzz was a busy little fella whom the teacher had in front to control him. She moved me behind Buzz, thinking I’d have a good influence on him. It backfired. (Marland chuckled) I kind of went his way. I also met Jerry Langstrom and Larry Mitzner, from the Balaton area. We all became lifelong friends.”

Marland recalled that Russell’s downtown had two grocery stores, two dry goods stores, a hardware store, and a drugstore. It also included a produce plant, two cafes, a bank, the post office, two gas stations, a Chevrolet dealer, the Co-operative Creamery, a couple insurance agencies, a meat locker, two barber-shops, and a cobbler. The railroad line serviced three grain elevators and a passenger/merchandise depot. Members of Marland’s family worked at downtown businesses.

“My great-uncle, Wesley Zvorak, ran the Municipal Liquor Store. My uncle, Alvin Burckhardt, worked there as a bartender. Later my mother-in-law, Lucille (Peg) Livingston, managed it for years, followed by my cousin, Julie Burckhardt. It was a community gathering place. Another great-uncle, Jack Zvorak, ran the Rainbow Café. The depot offered passenger rail service during my early years. My Uncle Alvin was section chief of a railroad work crew. He took his children on the last passenger run from Russell to Marshall so they’d know what it was like to ride a passenger train.”

Marland described the family’s regular trips to Russell.

“Saturday night was when you went to town to trade. Mom traded eggs for grocery money. There was also Maurice Nicholson’s Produce where my folks marketed eggs and chickens on occasion. In the summer, we’d also go to town Wednesday nights to do more shopping and listen to the Russell Community Band in the old bandwagon.”

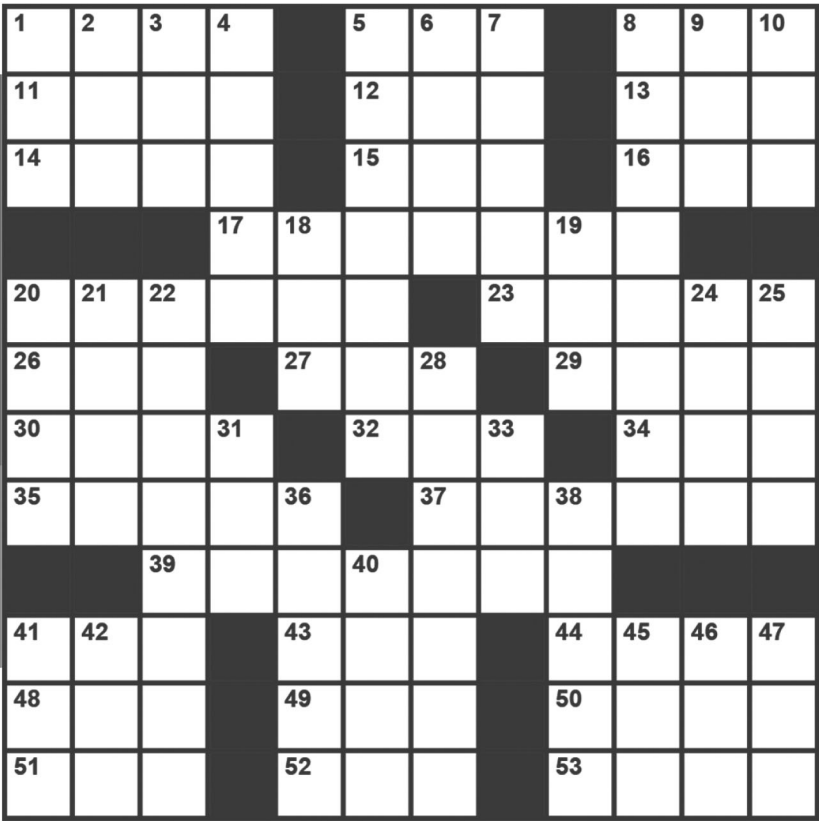

Those band concerts did not always hold the attention of the young boys.

“We’d play rough games in a vacant lot downtown on Wednesday nights. We used to play a tackle game where everyone would line up on one side of the open lot with one fellow in the middle. On his signal we’d would run across the lot and try to evade the guy in the middle who tackled as many of the runners as he could. Those he tackled would join him in the middle and help tackle the runners in the next round. This continued until there were no more runners. Then we’d start over again. (Marland laughed) I’m not sure what the adults thought of our game. It was rough and dirty play.”

Marland attended RPS through high school, becoming involved in school activities and gaining more independence. But none of this prepared him for a family tragedy that reshaped his family and future.

“It was dirt road for a long period of time, and it’s super windy and all that kind of stuff,” Bollerud said. “We didn’t have any dirt road other than there was about 20 miles of construction that was dirt. But the frost heaves get so bad the last two days of our travel through the Yukon. We were down 15 miles per hour for some of it. It was like driving on 100 miles of speed bumps.”

On their journey, they stopped at a well-known tourist destination called the Sign Post Forest in Watson Lake of the Yukon Territory in Canada. There, travelers will often leave hometown signs or other items for people to enjoy while passing through the area.

Bollerud spotted a sign for Sleepy Eye and one for Tracy as well, though he was unsure if the Tracy one was specifically from Minnesota. He noted there were signs from as far away as China and Russia, as well as some homemade signs.

While they were at the Sign Post Forest, Bollerud decided to leave something of his own in memory of his father, who passed away a few years ago.

“In the back of the car, we had a long-sleeve orange Canby Lancer shirt that was my dad’s,” Bollerud said. “He was a big supporter of my kids and that kind of stuff. So he bought it for my son’s elementary football games. So we thought that would be a good one (to leave).”

The Sign Post Forest traces its history back to the 1940s, to when the Alaskan Highway was being constructed. At that time, an Army engineer named Carl Lindley was injured and was brought to an Army Aid Station in Watson Lake to recuperate. He was asked to repair and repaint the camp’s directional post. When he did, he decided to add his hometown sign of Danville, Illinois.

The Sign Post Forest is just north of the border between British Columbia and the Yukon Territory. Though the original post and sign that Lindley built in the 1940s no longer exist, he built a replica of the original signpost and replaced the Danville sign during the Alaska Highway’s 50th anniversary celebration in 1992.

To this day, people continue the tradition of adding their hometown signs to the Sign Post Forest.

“People just kept leaving signs,” Bollerud said. “And now, I mean, there’s got to be 100,000 signs there. It was huge. Every single tree, they put up posts and all that kind of stuff.”

Bollerud said the trip was a great way to end his sabbatical.

“Absolutely beautiful, beautiful views,” he said. “It was actually a wonderful end to my sabbatical. There was a real kind of peace in just driving it and seeing the beauty of the world.”

SPOTLIGHT ON SUCCESS

Canby Graduate Name: Joseph Miller

Graduating Year: 2004

Career/Occupation: Material Scientist

Post high school education:

I started my bachelor’s degree in construction engineering at North Dakota State University and completed three years before I ended up switching to physics because of an internal curiosity of life after death and the general workings of the universe. During my undergraduate, I also had the privilege to study a semester in Spain and complete a summer internship at Cornell University in New York. I graduated with my BS in physics & minor in Spanish in 2010. I continued my studies and received my doctoral degree in materials and nanotechnology in 2014.

Current career/occupation:

I am a material scientist and currently the VP of Materials at the startup company Simplifyer in Raleigh, North Carolina. We focus on making sustainable soft goods including footwear and automotive interiors, with a focus on replacing the synthetic materials that are polluting our environment.

How did CHS contribute to your success or prepare you for the leader you are today?

The foundation for my intrigue into the workings of nature came early in life, promoted by the fact that I grew up on a family farm with daily interactions with plants/crops, animals, and water/rivers/lakes. However, the growth of that intrigue to an exciting part of my everyday thought occurred at CHS, with the help of some very special and passionate teachers, coaches, and administrators; their ability to both make the learning of difficult subjects fun and show curiosity and care about my personal growth was very beneficial to both my career path and success ... leading to my exciting job today.

Do you think school activities have a role in student success?

Personally, school activities and sports were a big part of my high school life, and I learned a lot from them. I think it can be very helpful for students to have some interaction with school activities and/or sports that can align with personal passions, even if that means starting a new school group/activity. One of the biggest benefits of being part of a group or school activity is the opportunity to improve your teamwork and social interaction skills.

If you could go back and change one thing about high school or college, what would it be?

I would tell myself to practice more. I think it’s very important to practice in preparation and visualization of your future challenges, whether that is taking an exam, making a speech, taking a winning free-throw shot, having a job interview, leading a project, or standing up for something you believe in when others don’t. This takes physical and, often even more importantly, mental practice. I continue to improve on this subject, and the people that often impress me the most have a strong physical and mental confidence that allows them to remain calm and make prudent decisions in some of the most challenging and anxious environments.

Any suggestion on how a current student could prepare for a career in their chosen profession?

The world is changing fast, and with the exponential growth of artificial intelligence this is even more true. I think it is important to find and/or develop your passion, while keeping a vigilant eye on how that passion can fit into the future job environment. I remember planning out my new baby boy’s career path just five years ago; picking out a few jobs that I thought would be most promising and stable (I guess this is something that new dads think about or maybe just me). However, in just over five years, I am re-questioning whether those same jobs will be stable or even available in the future. Thus, I think it is important to find your drive and desired profession but also learn how to and be prepared to adapt.

The band members are now spread out more across the region, with Doug Josephson in Michigan and Greg Novotny in Winona, but they always try to get together to play when they can. “We’ve gotten together every two, three or four years and always been the warm-up band,” Nordquist said. “If we see each other, we talk about the band and when we’re going to play again.” The band members try to keep involved in music whether in other local bands or singing in church. “It’s camaraderie and the love of music,” Nordquist said. “They’re all good and we all blend. It’s just really, really fun.” More than just a sports town, Nordquist explained that Minneota has always had a legacy of music. Minneota was WCCO’s Band of the Week one time in 1969. “When I got my drum set in 1969, Minneota got a jazz band,” Nordquist said.

“They’ve had one ever since. We have bands going all the time for Bug Days. Friday night and all day Saturday, and then the worship service Sunday morning. Music is great in Minneota.” Every year at Boxelder Bug Days, Nordquist said that band members get asked if the group will be playing again. “This year, we are playing,” Nordquist said. “People are excited. It’s fun to get together.”
